Does Farm Bureau
Insurance offer
lots of different types of coverage?

A

Do Sunflowers grow in Kansas?

It may not be exactly proper to answer a question with a question. . . but sometimes it can make an effective point, especially if you have a Sunflower for your company emblem.

Farm Bureau Insurance is a multiple line. . . all Kansas service. You may have the Sunflower line for farm or homeowners coverage. Or you may have our car insurance. . . or a life, liability, disability, hospital confinement, crop-hail policy. . .

It's more than likely, though, that you are one of the thousands of Kansans who have Farm Bureau Insurance policies for many different things! And that's logical because you have a single, quality source to look to for advice and counsel as well as confidence in coverage.

So if someone asks you if Farm Bureau Insurance has a policy for this or that, you could answer, "Do Sunflowers grow in Kansas?" But it would probably be nicer to say, "I'll bet they do!"

1977 K-State Football

K-State vs Nebraska October 8, 1977

As far as personalities go, Kansas State fans will be viewing a different type of Nebraska football team than the ones they are accustomed to seeing. And hopefully, Cornhusker fans will see a different brand of K-State ballclub than they have in the past.

In recent years Nebraska, with the golden arms of David Humm and Vince Ferragamo, has stung with the pass.

Through the first four outings of 1977, the Big Red Machine has dealt its biggest licks via the run. The Huskers are averaging 285 yards per game on the ground led by tailbacks I. M. Hipp (No. 32) and Rick Berns (No. 35).

Hipp, a 200-pound sophomore, gained 252 yards in NU's 31-13 victory over Indiana last Saturday. He and the 205-pound Berns have averaged 180 yards per game between them.

That isn't to say Nebraska can't pass, though. Quarterbacks Tom Sorley (No. 12) and Randy Garcia (No. 18) have completed 34 passes for 510 yards and four touchdowns.

Nebraska, after being surprised by Washington State, 19-10, in the season opener, has reeled off victories over Alabama (31-24), Baylor (31-10) and Indiana (31-13).

Kansas State hasn't been so fortunate in the victory column. But the Wildcats unveiled a new arsenal of their own — a balanced offense — in losing a 24-21 cliff-hanger to nationally-ranked Mississippi State.

Led by the Green boys, Mack and Charley, KSU ran for 273 yards and passed for 208, the biggest offensive production since 1971.

Mack fell only eight yards shy of establishing a Kansas State single-game rushing record when he gained 181 yards in 37 carries.

Charley caught five passes for 105 yards. Both of them were a part of 50-yard plays.

"I'm sure everybody on our offensive unit has confidence in what they are doing now," notes Wildcat boss Ellis Rainsberger. "We know we can move the ball. We still need to learn how to win."

The offensive outburst overshadowed a stellar K-State defensive performance which saw the Cats limit high-powered Mississippi State to only 177 yards rushing and 99 yards through the air.

"I've been proud of our defense all along," Rainsberger continues, "but this (Nebraska) will be by far our biggest test, particularly in defending the run."

Kansas State will be looking for its first conference victory since the season finale of 1974 (Colorado).

Nebraska leads the series 49-10-2. Kansas State's last victory against the Cornhuskers was 12-0 in 1968.

Welcome to K-State

Welcome to an exciting afternoon of Wildcat football.

At Kansas State University we are proud of our faculty and staff who are dedicated to giving our student athletes every opportunity to develop their special talents. Our coaches know that student athletes must meet the normal rigors of college life, the challenges of academic pursuits, plus the demands of a first-rate intercollegiate athletic schedule.

The positive interaction between KSU players and coaches supports student success in these areas.

Our athletes and coaches enjoy tough competition. We have it scheduled this fall, in both pre-Conference games and in the Big Eight.

We hope you enjoy this afternoon and that you will come often to see KSU in action!

K-Staters in the Pros

From Little-Known to Well-Known

By Jay Vanier

If you were to pick a school which presently has two starting quarterbacks in the National Football League, a school like Ohio State or UCLA might come to your mind.

But if you're a follower of Kansas State athletics, then you already know that two K-State grads, Lynn Dickey and Steve Grogan, are at the controls of their respective teams.

Dickey's and Grogan's stories are tailor-made for a Tinsel town movie script. The small-town Kansas boys who make it big in pro football and marry their college sweethearts, then live happily ever after. Although in Dickey's case he's had to endure more before success has come his way.

Dickey first became disenchanted with football after his initial semester at K-State.

"I just wasn't happy with anything," reflected Dickey. "Suddenly football was over and life just stopped for me. In high school I had always been able to move from sport to sport."

Dickey continued, "Shortly before the second semester I called Hindman Wall (a Gibson assistant who is presently the athletic director at Tulane) and told him I wasn't coming back. Coach Gibson came to the phone and said plenty. It was probably the best thing he ever did for me."

After Dickey's freshman frustrations were over, he went on to become the most prolific passer in Big Eight history, completing 501 of 994 aerial attempts for 6,208 yards and 29 touchdowns.

The nation's colleges produced such pro quarterbacks as Archie Manning, Ken Anderson, Jim Plunkett, Dan Pastorini and Dickey in 1971, making '71 known as the "Year of the Quarterback."

Most folks still figured the 6-4, 210-pound native of Osawatomie to be a clinch first-round draft choice, but he didn't get the call until the third round.

Houston had made Dickey their third-round draft choice. The two-time all-Big Eight selection labored in the shadow of Dan Pastorini for five seasons and was plagued with a variety of nagging injuries. He enjoyed his best season with the Oilers in 1973 when he completed 71 of 120 passes for 888 yards and he led Houston to their only win of the season.

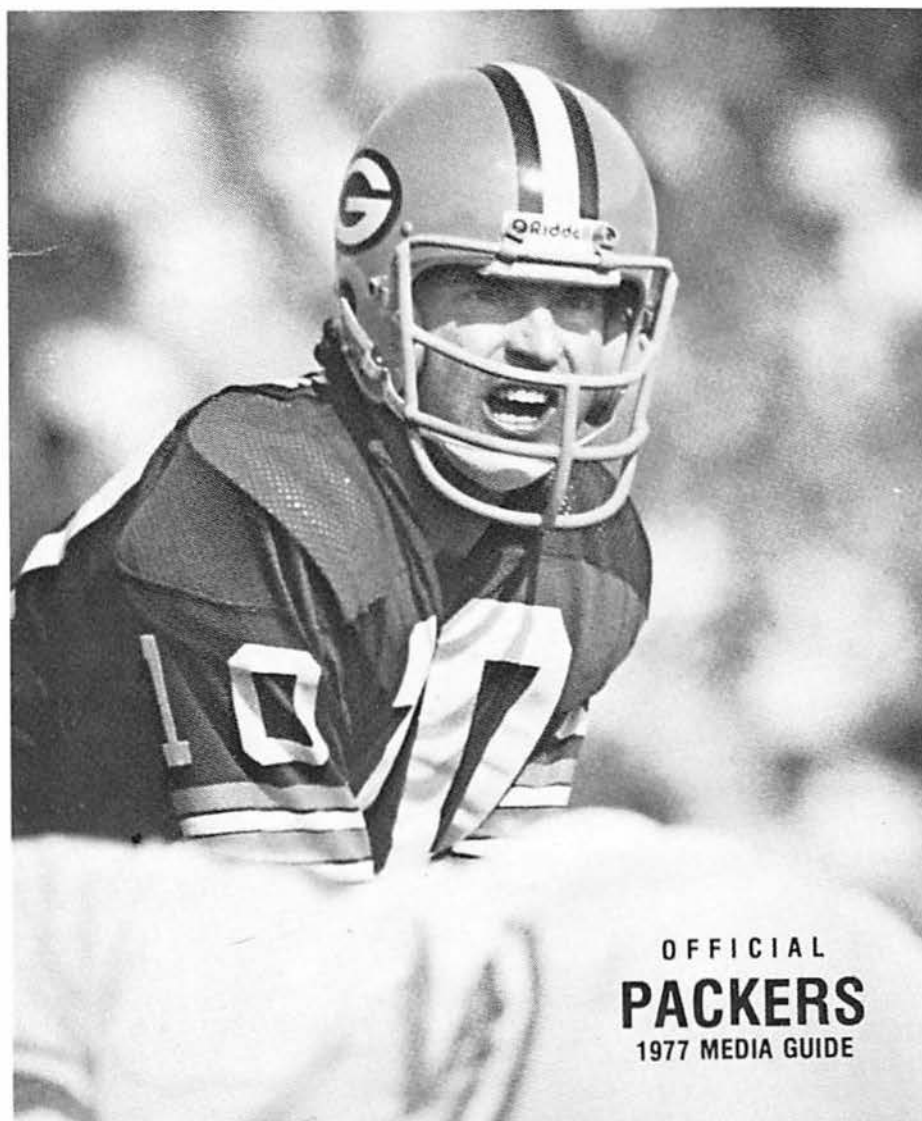

At the end of the '75 season, Green Bay head coach and general manager Bart Starr went searching for a quarterback to lead his Packers and Houston convinced him Dickey was their man, and he proved them right.

Dickey entrenched himself as the Packs' No. 1 signal-caller, leading them to four victories in ten starts before missing the final four games of the '76 campaign with a shoulder separation. Statistically, he completed 115 of 243 passes for 1,465 yards and seven touchdowns.

Steve Grogan, like Lynn Dickey, is what every mother would like her son to be — tall, handsome, athletically inclined, possessor of leadership qualities, and always a gentleman.

Grogan is the other half of K-State's NFL quarterbacking duo. The 6-4, 205-pounder from Ottawa was picked by the New England Patriots in round five of the 1975 draft.

Grogan, a two-time all-Big Eight academic selection, left Manhattan as K-State's third-leading career passer behind Dickey and Dennis Morrison. As a Wildcat, he completed 166 of 371 attempts for 2,213 yards and twelve touchdowns. His stats could have been much better except for the fact that he pinched a nerve in his neck that hampered him throughout his senior year.

Green Bay quarterback Lynn Dickey, a former K-State standout, suffered through several disappointing seasons with the Houston Oilers before claiming the starting job with the Packers.

After making the team, Grogan saw action in 13 of the Patriots' 14 1975 games. He started seven of the club's last eight games and against Buffalo he completed 25 passes for 365 yards in helping the Pats establish a club record of 498 yards of total offense in a single game. His 25 completions in a single game was also a club record.

His rookie performance so impressed head coach and general manager Chuck Fairbanks, that he traded former Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett to San Francisco — thus paving the way for Grogan to be a starting NFL quarterback in just his second season.

Grogan gave the Patriots exactly what they needed — a shot in the arm that paved the way to an 11-3 season, a tie for the AFC Eastern Division title, and nearly an AFC championship. The eventual Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders bested the Patriots 24-21 in the first round of the playoffs.

Grogan passed for over 1,900 yards and 18 touchdowns, ran for an additional 12 touchdowns, and established a new NFL standard for touchdowns scored by rushing for quarterbacks.

Former Wildcat Don Calhoun operated in the shadows of Isaac Jackson while at K-State, but has since made his mark with the New England Patriots.

K-State fans should be familiar with one of Grogan's teammates, fullback Don Calhoun. A 6-0, 215-pound native of Wichita, Calhoun gained over 721 yards on the ground for New England and his 5.6 yards per carry average was tops in the NFL.

In the Patriots' late season drive towards the playoffs, Calhoun produced four consecutive 100-yard rushing performances. For his efforts he was awarded with the club's 1976 "Unsung Hero" award.

Despite playing in the shadow of Isaac Jackson, the leading rusher in Wildcat history, Calhoun dashed for 1,300 yards and six scores as a collegian. He was drafted by Buffalo in the tenth round upon graduation in 1974, and he was released by the Bills in the middle of the next season. The Patriots picked Calhoun up on waivers and have never regretted the move.

One of the most successful K-Staters in the NFL, despite a general lack of recognition, is St. Louis Cardinal defensive end Ron Yankowski.

At 6-5, 250 pounds, Yankowski has been a regular for the Cards since he was an eighth-round draft choice in 1971. The two-time all-Big Eight selection weighed just 212 pounds as a Wildcat even though he played defensive tackle.

One of Yankowski's Kansas State teammates was Clarence Scott, the 1971 first-round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns. Scott has enjoyed a successful career in the play-for-pay league and was even tabbed as Cleveland's Most Valuable Player following the 1973 season.

"Clarence is the most determined player I've ever seen," noted Brown head coach Forrest Gregg. "He's the best tackler among our defensive backs and is our most consistent member of the secondary."

Henry Childs, the New Orleans Saints' No. 1 tight end, was one of the most productive receivers in K-State history. After latching on to 95 passes for 1,365 yards and three touchdowns as a Wildcat, Childs was selected by Atlanta in the fifth-round of the 1974 draft.

Childs was signed by New Orleans as a free agent prior to the final game of the '74 season. A native of Thomasville, Ga., Childs enjoyed his most productive year as a professional in 1976, when he latched onto 26 aeriels for 349 yards and three touchdowns. With the return of Archie Manning to the Saints lineup, Childs' totals should rise considerably.

A 1969 Kansas State graduate, Larry Brown is a member of the Washington Redskins Public Relations Department. But before Brown retired to a "front office" job he carried the football for the Redskins.

And he carried the football enough (1,530 times) to become the eleventh leading rusher of all time in the NFL with 5,875 yards and 35 touchdowns.

Brown's career at K-State really never got off the ground, mainly because of a hearing deficiency that was not discovered until his first year as a professional.

Steve Grogan left Manhattan as K-State's third leading career passer, but he's number one in the hearts of New England Patriot fans as the club's number one quarterback.

The late Vince Lombardi, who coached the Redskins during the 1969 season, noticed that Brown was always a second late getting off the snap count.

Brown went to doctors who discovered a hearing problem but resolved the handicap by designing a helmet with a built-in hearing aid.

In 1970 he became the first Redskin ever to gain 1,000 yards rushing when he sprinted for 1,125 yards, and in 1972 Brown established a new club record of 1,216 yards rushing as he earned NFL Player-of-the-Year honors.

The Wildcat faithful can bet that someday names like Davenport, Thompson, Lampkin, Lovely, Franklin, Landry, Cummings, and Spani will join 26 other K-State alums who have made pro-football a living since 1970.

Coach Ellis Rainsberger and Staff

"The days of us taking anything from anybody are over at Kansas State. We plan to be highly competitive from here on out."

Those are the prophetic words of K-State football boss Ellis Rainsberger, who approaches the 1977 season with optimism of the guarded nature. He believes two seasons of laying painstaking groundwork and the careful recruiting of outstanding athletes will begin to show positive results.

"We know most people have picked us eighth (in the Big Eight), almost unanimously," Rainsberger reminds, "but neither our football players, or our coaches believe that. We have a much better team than we had last year."

Quite simply, since Ellis Rainsberger's arrival at Kansas State two years ago, Wildcat football players have weighed more, stood taller and ran faster.

"We are beginning to get the ingredients (speed and size) we want, now it's just a matter of how well we put it all together," Rainsberger adds.

He certainly is no stranger to being involved in building programs. Classic examples of his contributions were Washburn and Wisconsin.

In 1964 at Washburn, his first head coaching job, he guided the Ichabods to an 8-1 season, and the school's first conference championship in 31 years. At Wisconsin, he served as offensive and recruiting coordinator in 1973 and 1974. The latter year, under Rainsberger's tutelage, the Badgers ranked eighth in the nation in scoring, and second in the Big Ten in total offense, and wound up with a 7-4 record.

It was those type of coaching feats which made Rainsberger a solid choice for KSU's head football coaching position in 1975.

The added plus was the fact that Rainsberger's purple ties are deep. He received his B.S. degree from here in 1958, and was a Wildcat football standout.

That's how most K-Staters first became acquainted with the dynamo from East St. Louis, Ill. They remembered that square-jawed, crew-cut fighter who thrived on enthusiasm and determination, playing regardless of injury. He was a two-time all-Big Seven performer (although weighing less than 200 pounds) and captained the Bus Mertes-coached KSU football squads in 1956 and 1957. And he was only KSU's third academic all-American footballer.

Current K-State footballers obviously have been influenced by Rainsberger. They are a squad full of "100 percenters," who play with the same gritted enthusiasm displayed by their tutor during his salad days at KSU.

If you're looking for that deep, booming voice on the K-State practice field look no further than KSU's smallest coach — Dave Dunkelberger.

'Dunk,' as he is affectionately known, coaches like he speaks — with authority. He is responsible for molding K-State's secondary into a well-drilled unit in just three years. Before coming to K-State he was an assistant at Western Illinois in 1974.

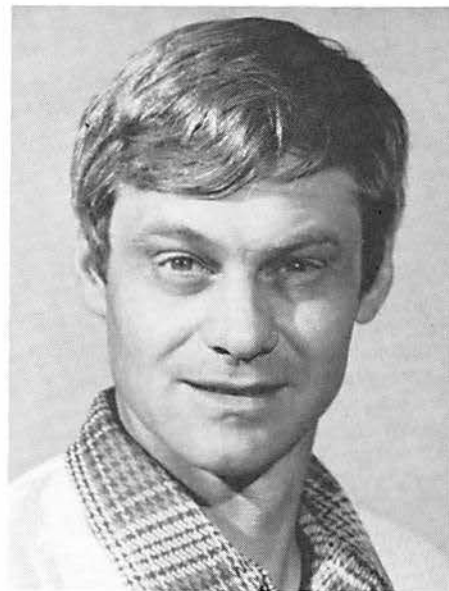

The 38-year-old native of Miamisburg, Ohio, was a three-sport standout in high school and held several records in track.

He also was a standout in both football and track at Indiana's DePauw University, captained DePauw's track team, and was named the school's Gentleman-Scholar-Athlete his senior year. He could "do it all."

Dunkelberger spent assistant coaching stints at Cincinnati from 1963-66 and again from 1969-72, at Indiana State from 1966-68, and at Virginia in 1973 before moving to Western Illinois.

J. W. EMERSON quarterbacks—receivers

One of the state's most successful high school coaches, J. W. Emerson has made an immediate impact on the college scene at K-State. The soft-spoken Emerson, in addition to tutoring KSU's varsity quarterbacks and receivers, guided the 1976 Wildcat junior varsity to the best year in the school's history — 4-1.

Before moving to K-State, Emerson had coached Manhattan High to an overall record of 55-16 highlighted by seven straight winning seasons.

Particularly adept at developing younger players, Emerson's tenure at Manhattan High included all or a share of four league titles and a Class 4A title in 1974. His Indians posted their first unbeaten regular season in 14 years in 1975 before losing to Kansas City's Bishop Ward in the first round of the playoffs.

Three of his Indian products — Gary Spani, John Liebe and Tim Buchannan — are members of KSU's varsity.

Emerson coached at the high school level for 22 years including stints at Ottawa and Columbus in Kansas and Ava and Lamar in Missouri.

Thanks for your support

KSU's Department of Athletics extends a hearty thanks to the automobile dealers throughout the state who participate in the loaning of courtesy cars to staff members.

This program provides the athletic department with means for staff and team travel in addition to broadening the use of funds.

We salute these car dealers for their support in helping the athletic department meet its transportation needs in 1977-78 and over the years.

Pride of Wildcat Land

Phillip Hewett

Phil Hewett, assistant professor of music, has been at Kansas State University since 1968. Under Hewett's direction the Marching Wildcats have become one of the largest and best bands in the country. The 1977 "Pride of Wildcat Land" will have over 350 performers on the field and will be featured in NBC TV and CBS TV during the football season.

Hewett received his BME degree from Texas Christian University and his MS from Kansas State University. Before coming to K-State he taught in the public schools of Texas for twelve years and was on the faculty of Del Mar College and Texas Christian University.

The Bands

Pride of Wildcat Land Marching Band

One of the largest bands in the Big Eight Conference, and certainly the most spirited, the Pride of Wildcat Land Marching Band performs at all home football games and selected out-of-town games. The band also performs at major league professional sporting events in the Midwest. The 1976-77 edition of the band included 284 musicians, four drum majors, 11 K-Stepper twirlers; two featured twirlers, 36 women's drill team members, 12 flagbearers and 12 staff members.

Basketball Pep Band

The 50-piece Pep Band is the focal point for cheers, music and enthusiasm at all Wildcat home basketball games as well as for pep rallies, other athletic events and all-school functions. Membership in the Pep Band is by application from the Pride of Wildcat Land Marching Band.

Symphonic Band

The premier band in the concert organization, the 80-piece Symphonic Band is selected by individual auditions which are conducted in August, November and January each year. The band rehearses each Monday during football season and four days a week during the concert season.

Concert Band

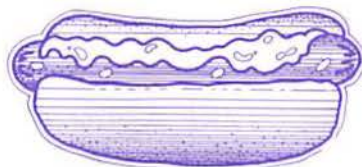

Open to anyone who wants to participate, the Concert Band rehearses four times a week during concert season.

Concert Jazz Ensemble

The top band in the jazz program offers a great opportunity to expand musical knowledge and to accompany jazz greats such as Ed Shaughnessy, Doc Severinson, Arnie Lawrence, Clark Terry, Louis Bell-son, Nancy Wilson, Mundell Lowe, Phil Wilson, Rich Matteson, Don Rader, Kim Richmond, Bill Case and Maynard Ferguson, all who have appeared with the band since 1970.

The band participates in local, regional, national and international jazz festivals and has compiled an impressive record of contest wins. The ensemble has been invited to participate in the prestigious Montreux Jazz Festival in Montreux, Switzerland the past two years.

Howdy Week

Planned to introduce the new bandmen to the excitement of a first-rate college marching band, Howdy Week begins with several days of playing rehearsal and marching drills. A traditional Howdy Week picnic, including games, softball and swimming, winds up the week. A Howdy Week King and Queen are chosen, and all band members participate in the fun.

The Great Weigh-In

During the 1976 football season the band conducted a fund-raising drive for new uniforms. Band members sold tickets with contestants trying to guess the weight of the entire marching band. The prize was a 1977 Dodge Aspen provided by Ed Schram Dodge of Manhattan. Although the proceeds were not as much as expected, the band members showed again their drive and determination to keep the Pride of Wildcat Land Band the best in the nation.

Band Day

K-State's annual Band Day is a gala celebration and is planned a year in advance to include all possible activities. All Kansas high school bands are invited to participate. In 1976, more than 6,000 students joined the parade and massed on the field to provide the show. The highlight of the performance was the "1812 Overture," augmented by cannons and bazoorkas provided by the Ft. Riley First Armored Division.

When it really counts, you send in the FIRST team.

Life always has its fourth-and-long yardage situations—when it seems the only thing left to do is punt.

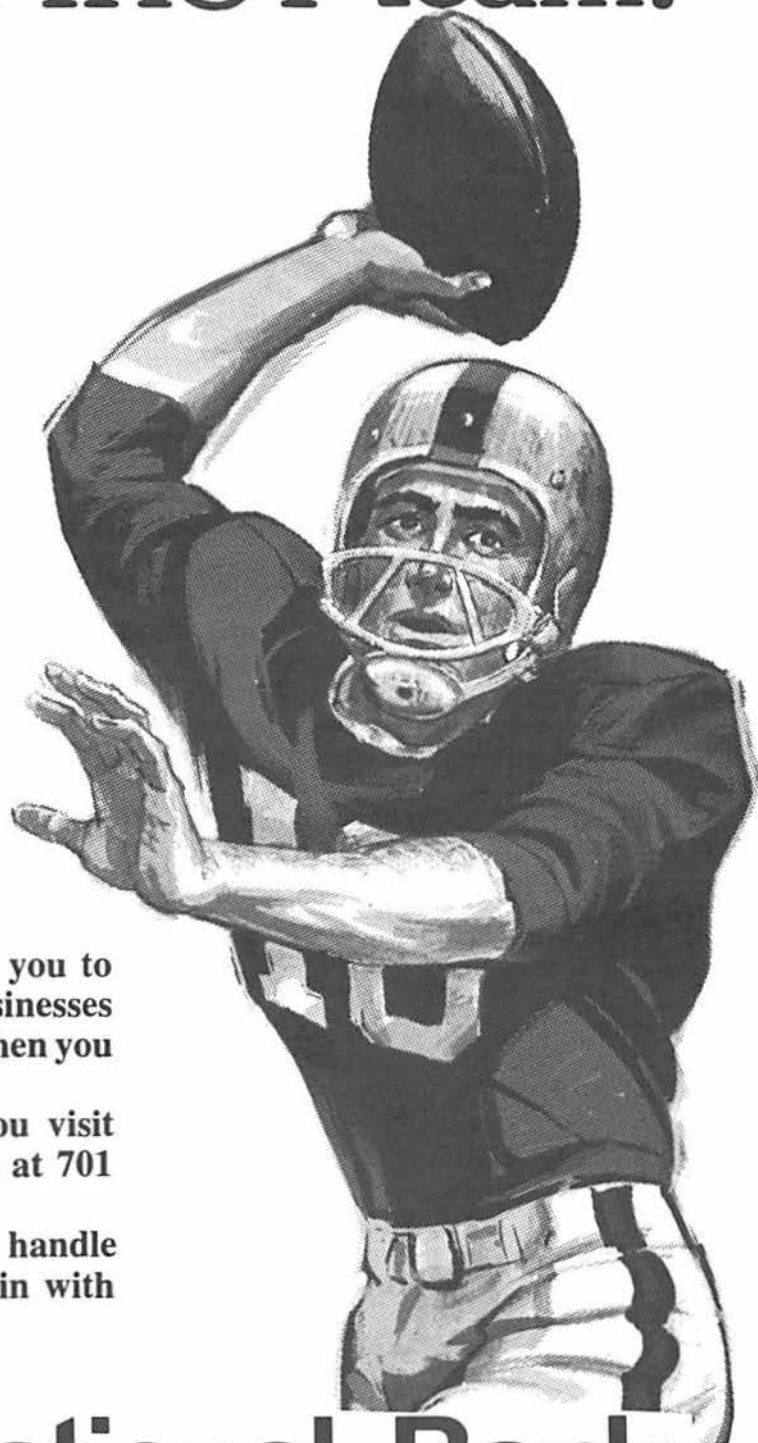

That's when you need to call on the FIRST team—the team at First National Bank, that is.

They're first stringers in every sense of the word: In money management...in service to you...and in service to Manhattan and the area community.

First National is the only Manhattan bank with four locations. It's the only bank with BankersCard, the card that enables you to get discounts at participating local businesses and at many hotels and restaurants when you travel—and nine other benefits.

Ask about BankersCard when you visit our "First Lady" at our main bank at 701 Poyntz Avenue.

Send in the First National team to handle your money matters...you always win with the First team.

K-State Frosh to Watch

7 Ron Lampkin
QB 6-0 170 Youngstown, Ohio

Blue-chip freshman who coaches promise will see action in the not-too-distant future...has moved into the number three spot on K-State's list of quarterbacks...two-year all-city standout during high school days...played in the all-Ohio all-Star game as a senior...also lettered in basketball...honor student...

80 Roman Bates
WR 6-1 160 Baton Rouge, La. (Capitol)

One of only a handful of freshmen on K-State's top two units...stands in the number two spot at one wide receiver position for the 'Cats...chose K-State over Louisiana State, Tulane and Grambling...has excellent speed and quickness...

Chartered in 1869 under the terms of the Land-Grant College Act of 1862, the University of Nebraska now is an institution of three major components — the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the University of Nebraska-Omaha, and the University of Nebraska Medical Center at Omaha — and a collection of agricultural experiment stations and related offices across the state.

The University held its first classes in 1871 in a three-story brick building on the outskirts of Lincoln.

The early years were fraught with internal ideological conflicts, with financial problems and with shortages of collegiate students. The University not only survived without interruption, but established the first program of graduate education west of the Mississippi in the mid-1880s and has grown to over 21,000 students.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln now has ten colleges, plus three schools and many other programs that offer 39 doctoral level, 61 masters, 110 undergraduate and 15 pre-professional areas of study.

KANSAS WHEAT

Wheat Team fans may be assured that the Kansas Wheat Commission is carrying the kernel. Adding to the Wheat Team's depth is the ability and agility of Kansas producers, specialists at Kansas State University, the Kansas Department of Agriculture, and a seasoned squad of wheat researchers.

The Wildcats and members of the World League depend on this team to fill the breadbaskets at their training tables. The Kansas Wheat Team has consistently scored a 320-million-bushel average during the past seven seasons.

The Wheat Team is known far and wide. Their bowl appearances span the globe—Kansas to New York to Japan to Moscow—and Kansas wheatmen are gaining more yardage every season in the marketing gridiron.

Odd-makers say one dollar will get you seven. One dollar of wheat generates $3 in the Kansas economy, and $7 in the U.S. economy.

The Wheat Team's first All-American was Turkey Red. Added to the Hall of Fame have been ground gainers like Blackhull, Kan-red, Tenmarq, Pawnee, Comanche, Wichita, Triumph, and Scout. Members of this year's All-Star team includes such linemen as Sage, Eagle, and Centurk.

Wheat scouts search far and wide for players to sign to this All-Star team. Lettermen on this team must possess a certain quality. Just recently they announced the signing of Larned for the '78 season.

Make your points count! Support a proven winner—THE KANSAS WHEAT COMMISSION!

Engineering New Foods...

A Race Against Time and Energy

The world has, of course, only what the world produces. Still, if the world's population is going to keep on growing, as it seems determined to do, the world must produce more and utilize better what it produces — or else the world suffers.

Ongoing research with exotic and novel proteins and meat analogs, along with improved agricultural methods and crop utilization, hold promise for the future of our world. Upgrading the biological utilization of available foodstuffs becomes most practical by optimal thermal processing.

One company committed to improving the utilization of the world's available foodstuffs is Wenger.

Thermally efficient Wenger extrusion cookers are now being used in 40 countries around the world for the production of high protein foods, meat extenders and meat substitutes made from vegetable proteins. These economical proteins consume much less energy per kilo of protein than meat, milk, or eggs and have an important role in meeting the growing world demand for quality protein foods at reasonable prices.

A black and white action photograph of two basketball players from Kansas State. The player in the background, wearing jersey number 31, is captured mid-air, performing a jump shot or layup. He is looking towards the basket with a focused expression. The player in the foreground, wearing jersey number 10, is running towards the basket, looking up at the ball. Both players are wearing white jerseys with 'KANSAS STATE' printed on them. The background is blurred, showing spectators in the stands.

Steer-A-Year Club

Dear Cattlemen's Steer-A-Year Club members:

The Cattlemen's Steer-A-Year Club at Kansas State University is, and has been, a vital member of our athletic support group. Through its participation we hope to improve communications, both incoming and outgoing, as well as improve club membership numbers through a well organized membership drive.

Your contributions are greatly appreciated and we in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics at K-State are dedicated to the steady improvement of the total program, much of which is made possible through the contributions of our Cattlemen's Steer-A-Year Club.

Due to the new administration and reorganization of the Cattlemen's Steer-A-Year Club, and in order to be fair with all parties who wish to participate, a complete list of club members will appear in our 1977-78 souvenir basketball programs.

Any inquiries concerning the Cattlemen's Steer-A-Year Club should be directed to Merle "Bones" Nay or Max VanLaningham, Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506, Phone 913/532-6910.

1977-78 Men's Basketball Preview

"Everything is Relative"

Wildcat boss Jack Hartman will come straight out and admit Kansas State's 1977-78 men's basketball team "should be as good, maybe even a little better" than last year's edition which certainly wasn't shabby considering Big Eight conference and post-season titles, its 23-8 overall mark and its one-point loss to NCAA champion Marquette.

Hartman, league coach of the year in 1977, welcomes back all-American guard Mike Evans, Big Eight Newcomer-of-the-Year Curtis Redding and backcourt sparkplug Scott Langton. A solid nucleus in any league.

But before K-State fans, sometimes referred to as the Purple Horde, rush forth to make post-season plans and motel reservations, they should listen to the rest of Hartman's thoughts.

"Even though we may be a little better, it's all relative," KSU's coaching genius reasons. "Most everybody else in the league will be so much better... Kansas for sure, Colorado for darn sure, and Oklahoma for certain. The entire league looks improved."

Meaning of course, in order to repeat the 'Cats will have a much tougher go than in 1977 when they won their last seven league contests and finished with an 11-3 mark.

"If we can replace Larry Dassie's rebounding skills and his overall contributions," Hartman continues, "we could be a comparable ballclub... possibly an improved one."

Dassie, considered by many the most underrated player in the Big Eight, was the glue in K-State's front line a year ago. He averaged 13 points per contest and led the team in rebounding, many of his retrieves coming on the offensive boards.

Also missing is Darryl Winston, who held his own in 1976-77 as K-State's "big man." The 6-5 Winston scored in double figures and was the team's second-leading rebounder.

Still, Hartman strongly believes that development and improvement of K-State's 6-11 seniors — Dan Hickert and Jerry Black — give the 'Cats an opportunity to "be better at the pivot."

Plus, he's planning on a more consistent campaign from the maturing Redding, a 6-5 sophomore, who at times as a yearling was awesome. And at times — wasn't.

The Brooklyn, N.Y. native averaged 16.6 points per game, was the third leading rebounder and led the team in scoring on 11 different occasions. There were contests when Redding did it all. Versus Kansas at Lawrence, Redding poured in 34 points, the most ever by a first-year player at K-State. He added 27 in KSU's 80-67 win over the Jayhawks in the Big Eight post-season tourney, then scored 32 versus Providence in the NCAA first-round.

If ever a player came through when a team needed him, Redding did for the Wildcats in 1976-77. His role this campaign will be different, however. "Curtis must accept more responsibility and leadership this year," Hartman maintains.

Kansas State also will be relying heavily on added experience and savvy from Langton, who ran the offense, glittered on defense, and scored in double figures after becoming a backcourt regular at mid-season.

Quality depth, a weakness for the 'Cats a year ago, needs only 126 points to become the most prolific scorer in K-State history. The three-time all-league selection needs to tally only 380 to become the Big-Eight's all-time scorer. Evans averaged 18.3 a year ago while reaping AP's Player-of-the-Year league honors.

Best bet to replace Dassie? Steve Soldner, a 6-7, 225-pound junior, whose playing time and success improved dramatically at the end of 1977. Soldner is a good shooter and a rugged rebounder but lacks Dassie's mobility and quickness.

"Assuming we play Soldner and Hickert or Black in front-line, we're going to be sacrificing the speed and quickness we had last year," Hartman points out, "but hopefully we can make up for that with better size."

"In other words, we are taking away one dimension of our game, but adding another.

ago, should be better. For starters, there's the one-two kick of Hickert and Black at center, in addition to the availability of junior Keith Frazier, sophomore Fred Barton, and blue-chip freshmen Rolando Blackman of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Thomas Freeman of Lynwood, Calif.

Barton, a 6-2 product of Edwardsville, Ill., who saw only limited action a year ago, is expected to push Langton for the one guard spot after developing rapidly in the off-season.

The other guard spot is a little more certain. That's where Mike Evans performs his act about as well as anyone in the business.

The 6-1 Evans, who has thrilled Big Eight fans for three seasons with his long-range jumpers, unbelievable moves and underwear-tight de-

Some situations we caused a year ago no longer will be possible, but some new ones will be," Hartman adds.

As mentioned earlier, the 6-5 Blackman, quick and a good jumper, along with sophomore Dean Danner are expected to provide back-up support at the forwards. Later help could come from frosh Kevin Ogle, and Brent Murphy, 6-8 and 6-7 respectively. In time, similar contributions are anticipated from Greg Prudhoe, a 6-11 yearling center.

"I like the looks of this K-State squad," Hartman concludes.

But in the words of Albert Einstein, "Everything is relative."

K-State Happenings

Old Mascot Retires

Kansas State University's venerable mascot, Touchdown VIII, retires today and will be replaced by two wildcat cubs.

The three-month-old cubs — a male and a female who will share the title — were littermates in the Lincoln, Nebraska Children's Zoo.

The "Touchdown Twins" make their official debut today when they are presented to KSU President Duane Acker and Manhattan's Sunset Zoo at ceremonies planned before today's K-State-Nebraska game. The presentation will be made by representatives of the Lincoln Children's Zoo.

Touchdown VIII, who has reigned since 1971, has been showing his age, so Tom Demry, director of Sunset Zoo, started looking for a successor. He considers the zoo lucky to have been able to arrange for not one, but two, bobcat cubs.

"We're fortunate because bobcats soon will be on the endangered species list and it is getting difficult, even for zoos, to obtain them."

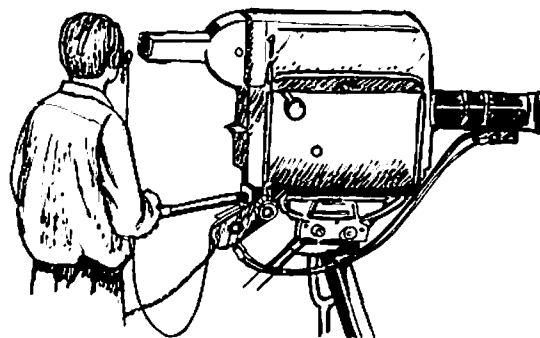

Demry said Sunset Zoo will be swapping several prairie dog pairs for the bobcats.

Touchdown VIII was a movie star, appearing in two Walt Disney productions, "Wahoo" and "Those Callows," before taking up his career as the K-State mascot.

He is the latest in a line that traces back to 1922 when two K-State graduates in veterinary medicine shipped a wildcat to Manhattan from Twin Falls, Idaho. That wildcat had battled a porcupine just before his trip and was unable to eat because quills obstructed his throat. He died without ever seeing a K-State touchdown scored.

Touchdown II had a 14-year-reign before dying of heat prostration, and was followed by III and IV, both of whom died from pneumonia.

Touchdown V was found dead between Topeka and Lawrence after having been stolen by some University of Kansas fans prior to the 1955 game. Touchdown VI died from pneumonia in 1959, but Touchdown VII reigned until 1971 when he died of old age at 14 — two years over the average life span for wildcats.

Film to Feature Band

Kansas State University's Pride of Wildcat Land Marching Band will be featured in the 1977 Big Eight Football Highlights Film, according to Director Phil Hewett.

"The producers of the highlights film have had a crew on campus yesterday and today to film our rehearsal and then follow us through all the preparations for the halftime show," Hewett noted.

During the nine-minute halftime show of today's game between K-State and Nebraska the band will present a varied program.

The show opens with the theme from "Star Wars" as band members form geometric designs to simulate the battle which ends with a giant double star.

Next, the majorettes will be featured in Broadway "razzle dazzle" and this will be followed by a bucking bronco that throws his rider — a reminder of the band's trip to Dallas, October 16, where they will perform at a televised game between the Dallas Cowboys and the Washington Redskins.

The K-Staters will conclude their show with a concert version of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," featuring the K-State Pridettes and the famed K-State "Spin."

The KSU Pride of Wildcat Land band is one of the largest in the Big Eight, with more than 370 members, including 280 bandmen, the Pridettes Drill Team, K-Steppers, flag bearers, featured twirlers, and drum majors.

Bring Back The Purple

There's something happening in Wildcatland these days. We've started bringing back the purple...and that ole K-State spirit!

In Kansas City they're manufacturing purple tractors. Out in western Kansas they're raising purple cattle. And in Manhattan everything is turning purple...including the people.

Once again, K-State's purple bull will be making special appearances at each of KSU's five home football games this fall thanks to the efforts of Edwin H. Rein and the Russell Wildcat Club.

Also on display each week will be the latest model of the Cat-er-puller, a customized tractor furnished by Philip Helwig and the Kansas City Cat-Backers.

And the folks enjoying the pleasant surrounds in KSU Stadium's refurbished press box can thank the Purple People of the Manhattan Wildcat Club.

And if in spite of all that K-State fans don't have anything to cheer about, they'll still have something to tap their toes to—no matter what beat gets them going.

For Dixieland lovers the Phil Hewett Dixieland Band, under the direction of Frosty Lawson, will be entertaining before the game each week and for the 'with-it' crowd, there'll be disco sounds played by K-State track star and disc jockey Vince Parrette.

Yes, we've got pride again in Wildcatland...and it's starting to show.

We're bringing back the purple!

Let's Have a 'Porkecue'

Looking for something new and different for your next outdoor barbecue or big pre-game party?

Why not try Reuben Sausage Patties, a favorite of the 1978 Kansas Pork Cookout King, Walter Harbert of Penolos.

Harbert was named the 1978 winner of the annual contest sponsored by the Kansas Pork Producers Council at the Kansas State Fair in Hutchinson this fall and will represent Kansas in the national contest later this year.

He also will be traveling across the state throughout October, Porkfest Month in Kansas, and the year promoting pork at restaurant expositions, home shows, and supermarkets.

Whether it's sausage, cured ham, or fresh pork chops, pork makes a tasty dish for any meal.

For other prize-winning pork recipes write: Kansas Pork Producers Council, Room 205, Call Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506.

1978 Kansas Pork Cookout Winners

REUBEN SAUSAGE PATTIES

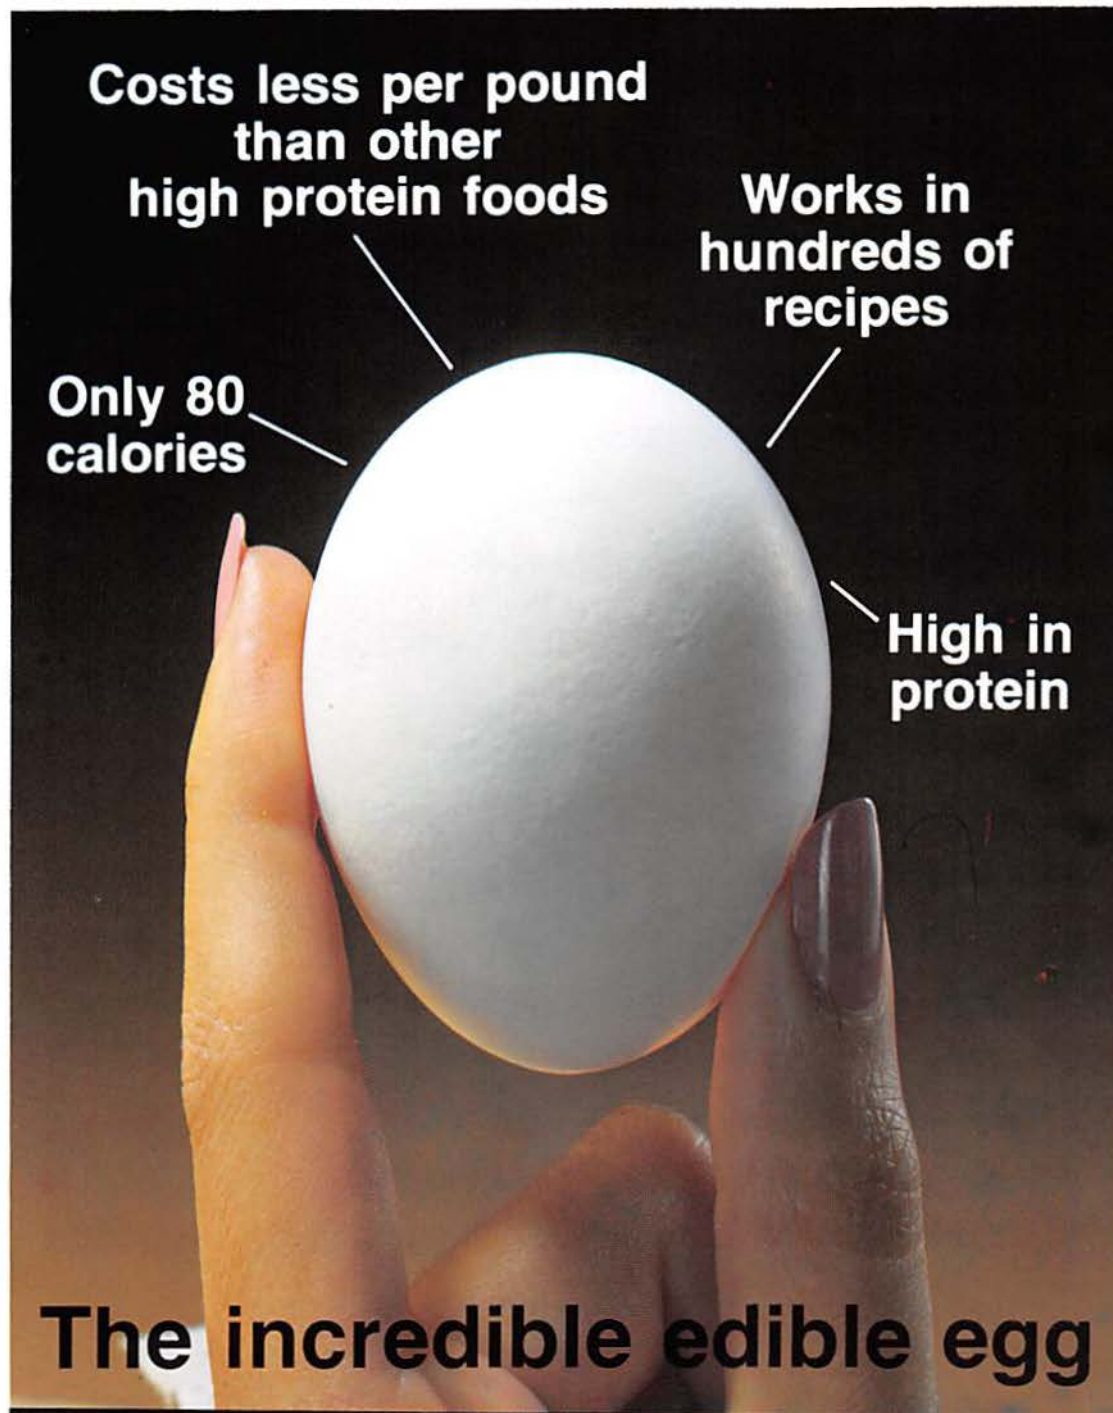

1 lb. sausage, seasoned with salt, pepper, nutmeg & garlic

1 cup sauerkraut

4 slices of Swiss cheese

Press sausage into 8 patties. Place $\frac{1}{4}$ cup (or less) sauerkraut between two patties, pressing edges together. Charcoal 20 minutes on each side. Top each with a slice of Swiss cheese; broil until the cheese begins to melt. Makes 4 servings.

FOOTBALL CAMP

For boys grade 5 thru 11

The purpose of the Ellis Rainsberger Wildcat Football camp is to teach every boy the fundamental and advanced skills necessary to make him a better football player. It is also hoped that our camp will help him to develop future athletic ideals in sportsmanship, leadership and citizenship. An evaluation of each boy will be given if so desired. No pads will be used.

For brochure and application phone or write Ellis Rainsberger, Football Camp, Kansas State Football Office, 2201 Kimball, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. Phone (913) 532-5876.
